Faculty Coordinator:- Mr. Abhishek Shukla

Student Coordinator: - Siddhart Kumar, Riya Verma,

Dr. Shalbha Chaudhary (Head of Women Grievance Cell) of R.D. Engineering College, Duhai the Resource Person for the session said Women empowerment refers to the creation of an environment for women where they can make their own decisions of their well being as well as for society. With regard to the current scenario, the question is that "are women become really strong? Many programs have been implemented and run by the government such as International women's day, Mother's day and so on in order to bring awareness in the society about the true rights and value of the women in the development of the nation. There is a high level of gender inequality where women are ill-treated by the family members as well as by the society, the real meaning of the women empowerment is to make them educated and leave them free so they can make their own decisions for their well being. In modern India women have held high offices such as President, Speaker of Lok Sabha etc women in India now also have participated in many activities like games, education, politics, media and so on. India needs to take some advance steps to improve the women positions through proper education and economic participation.

During this program Mrs Arnima Tyagi the gram pradhan of village Basantpur saintli also present there and appreciated the students and give support to organized this program in a better way

The outcomes of Women Empowerment And domestic Violence Awareness Program were follows as:-

Dr. Gaurav Bansal (HOD of MBA Department) in R.D. Engineering College, Duhai the Resource Person of the session Education is part of the foundation of all progress and growth both as an individual and as a society. it is dependent on multiple factors- the availability of stationery items is one of them. Stationary is the first thing along with books comes in our mind when we think or talk about education. It is the basic requirement for learning. Pencils, erasers, sharpeners, tools of geometry, notebooks are some basic stationery items without these items student won't be able to write and it will restrict their creativity and thought process. i.e., When a child starts learning alphabets, teachers help them to write it, in this activity children are not only recognizing the shape of the alphabets, but it also helps develop the child's fine motor skills to control their hand movement by using different pressure on pencil to write. It is an inseparable and essential part of a student's life. These are useful for students in school as well as home. But not many students are blessed enough to have these basic and essential things in their life because of their poor economic condition. We in Paragraph are trying our best to reach out to many such kids in every possible way.

An AIDS awareness program organized by R. D. Engineering College on 30 November 2019 has various positive outcomes, contributing to a more informed and empowered community. Here are potential outcomes of such a program:

1. Increased Knowledge: Participants gain a better understanding of HIV/AIDS, its transmission, prevention methods, and available treatments, leading to increased knowledge about the virus.
2. Reduced Stigma and Discrimination: Awareness programs help combat the stigma and discrimination associated with HIV/AIDS, fostering a more inclusive and supportive environment for individuals living with the virus. Participants learn about safer sex practices, the importance of using protection, and how to reduce the risk of HIV transmission, leading to healthier behaviors.
3. Increased Testing and Counseling: Awareness programs often encourage individuals to undergo regular HIV testing and counseling, promoting early detection and access to appropriate medical care. Participants may adopt safer behaviors, such as using condoms consistently and getting tested regularly, contributing to a reduction in new HIV infections.
4. Improved Access to Treatment: Increased awareness may lead to more individuals seeking medical care and accessing antiretroviral therapy (ART) for those living with HIV, contributing to better health outcomes. Awareness programs foster a sense of community support, encouraging individuals to engage in open conversations about HIV/AIDS and providing support to those affected.
5. Empowerment of Vulnerable Populations: Targeted awareness efforts can empower vulnerable populations, such as sex workers and injecting drug users, with the knowledge and resources to protect themselves from HIV transmission.
6. Prevention of Mother-to-Child Transmission (PMTCT): Awareness programs emphasize PMTCT strategies, promoting testing and treatment for pregnant women living with HIV to prevent transmission to their infants.

R. D. Engineering College organized a program on "Swachh Bharat Abhiyan" on 02-October 2019, aimed at achieving a clean and open defecation-free society. The outcomes of this program include the followings:

- 1. Improved Sanitation Infrastructure: The campaign led to the construction of millions of toilets across rural and urban areas, improving sanitation infrastructure and reducing open defecation.
- 2. Open Defecation-Free (ODF) Status: Many villages and cities achieved the ODF status, indicating a significant reduction in open defecation practices and the establishment of proper sanitation facilities.
- 3. Health Benefits: With improved sanitation facilities, there is a reduction in waterborne diseases, contributing to better overall public health and hygiene.
- 4. Behavioral Change: The Swachh Bharat Abhiyan promoted a shift in public behavior towards cleanliness, encouraging individuals to adopt better sanitation practices and maintain cleanliness in their surroundings.
- 5. Environmental Impact: Reduced open defecation and better waste management contribute to a cleaner environment, preventing water and soil pollution.
- 6. Economic Productivity: Improved health outcomes and reduced disease burden result in increased economic productivity, as a healthier population is better able to contribute to the workforce.
- 7. Social Inclusion: The campaign aimed to address the dignity and safety concerns of women by providing them with safe and private sanitation facilities, contributing to social inclusion.
- 8. Rural-Urban Connectivity: Swachh Bharat Abhiyan emphasized the importance of cleanliness in urban and rural areas, promoting a more interconnected and hygienic living environment.
- 9. Educational Impact: With the construction of toilets in schools, the campaign contributed to a more conducive and sanitary environment for education, positively impacting the attendance and well-being of students.

A program on "World Day Against Child Labour" conducted by R. D. Engineering College on 12 June 2020 aims to eradicate and prevent the exploitation of children in various forms of work that deprive them of their childhood, interfere with their ability to attend regular schools, and are mentally, physically, socially, or morally harmful.

Here are potential outcomes of such a program:

- 1. Increased Awareness: The program raises awareness about the issue of child labor, helping communities, families, and authorities understand the negative impact it has on children's lives and future prospects.
- 2. Legal and Policy Changes: Successful programs may lead to the development and implementation of stronger laws and policies against child labor, creating a legal framework that protects children and ensures their rights.
- 3. Improved Enforcement: Enhanced awareness and legal changes often result in more effective enforcement of existing child labor laws, leading to increased accountability for those involved in exploiting children.
- 4. Rescue and Rehabilitation: Programs may lead to the identification and rescue of children engaged in labor, providing them with rehabilitation and support to reintegrate them into a safe and nurturing environment.
- 5. Economic Alternatives: Programs may support the development of economic alternatives for families, addressing the root causes of child labor by providing parents with viable income-generating opportunities.
- 6. Community Empowerment: Successful programs empower communities to take a stand against child labor, fostering a sense of collective responsibility for the well-being and education of all children.
- 7. International Collaboration: Efforts against child labor often involve collaboration between countries, NGOs, and international organizations to share best practices, resources, and strategies.
- 8. Long-Term Behavior Change: A successful program fosters a cultural shift, promoting the idea that child labor is unacceptable and that every child deserves the right to a childhood, education, and a promising future.
